

We know that children respond differently sometimes. They need positive relationships and consistent routines. As we learn more we are able to offer choices with skilled negotiation so they achieve each day.